

* How Good360 works with business partners.

One person's extra is another person's essential. That is why our goal is for nothing useful to lie unused. Good360 is a matchmaker, helping repurpose things of value by directing them to the Australians who need them most.

We provide our business partners with seamless solutions to connect spare goods to men, women and children doing it tough. Whatever your surplus goods problem, we have the breadth of distribution services to offer a solution and a network of Not for Profit and school partners in all cause areas across Australia who will give the goods a second life through their local communities.

Good360 provides you with impact stories, images and data from the recipients of your goods to share with your employees and customers.

Direct to our warehouse

Your surplus stock can be sent to our Good360 warehouse for distribution to people in need all over Australia.

Benefits:

- The convenience of delivering to one warehouse with the potential to impact 1000s of Not for Profits and eligible schools nationally.

Local store matching

Good360 can match your retail stores' surplus stock with local Not for Profits and eligible schools Australia-wide for maximum efficiency.

Benefits:

- Local Not for Profits and eligible schools collect the goods and distribute to people in need where your employees live and work. Customers want to support businesses who do good in their local communities.
- Good360 manages the program and is the matchmaker of spare goods with need through our national network of pre-vetted Not for Profits and eligible schools.

Direct truckloads

Goods can be sent direct from your distribution centre to our larger Not for Profit members for quick distribution to their communities.

Benefits:

- Allows companies to quickly and efficiently distribute large quantity of goods to our national network of pre-vetted Not for Profits and eligible schools.

Disaster recovery support

Partner to help disaster-impacted communities by providing much needed goods in the recovery process.

Benefits:

- Allows companies to deliver the right goods to the right people at the right time. We'll be there in the early days with personal care items, supplies for shelters, and cleaning products. Plus we'll be there long after the media spotlight has dimmed, months and years later with furniture, mattresses, home goods and other necessities to help impacted communities through the recovery journey.

Partnership benefits

We connect surplus with need.

Not for Profits and eligible schools register for free Good360 membership and then order the goods they need from our website. Our network of over 1,000 members are ready to gift the spare goods of businesses to Australians who need them most.

Not for Profits & school members commit to:

- Giving the goods to people in need for free or using them to further their programs
- Not selling, trading, transferring or bartering the goods for financial gain
- Not using the goods to fundraise for their organisations
- Storing the goods at a business location and not transferring the goods to another school or Not for Profit without Good360's prior approval.
